NO SUMMER SCHOOL

The Johnny Test Government School says that next year all students should be in school all year-round, with no summer vacation. As a student of this school, I ask you the public, to reject the reasons the school has given to support their decision.

First, they claim that students do not learn anything during the summer. For me, this is not the case. Last summer, I learned many things although I wasn't in the classroom. For example, I learned how to run a business. I earned money by cutting lawns and doing yard work for my neighbours. I managed customers, kept records, and made my own bank deposits. That wasn't all I learned last summer. In August I went camping with other scouts and I learned how to pitch a tent and make a campfire. I spent the entire vacation learning so it certainly wasn't a waste. I sure would not have learnt all that if I had been in a classroom.

I am not the only one who learns during the summer. Many other children join the National Library Reading Programme. Those who were in the programme last summer read an average of twelve books! Most students don't read that many books in school. Other students attended the Cable and Wireless/LIME Summer Computer Programme and learnt many things about the Internet and how to use the computer.

The school's second reason for having school during summer is that it will help students to get better grades. I can't speak for everyone but if I am forced to be indoors on a beautiful sunny day, I am not going to want to learn anything. In fact, my grades may get worse because I'll be sick of going to school. Not being in school in July and August is a break I really need. By the way, if this is such a good idea, how come other schools are not doing it?

The third reason for having all year-round school is that parents could save money and not have to pay for their children to be entertained. That doesn't apply to all students. Some parents work from home. Some children have stay-at-home parents and grandparents who look after them when they are not in school. Besides, the school would need more money to pay cooks and janitors during the vacation time.

In summary, there are no good reasons for having school all year. Students will not learn more or get better grades. Parents will not save more money. This is a bad plan that students and parents should resist.

19. What is the message stated in this passage?

- A. Summer school is not a good plan.
- B. Summer school does not save money.
- C. The writer learned to manage a business.
- D. Some students have stay-at-home parents.

20. The Johnny Test Government school believes that when students are not in school,

- A. they are not learning.
- B. they read more library books.
- C. they get bored and cause trouble.
- D. they need to do something creative.

21. Based on the writer's attitude, which of the following is true?

- A. The writer gets poor grades.
- B. The writer does not like going to school.
- C. The writer does not care what happens to other students in the summer.
- D. The writer prefers being outdoors to being in school during the summer.

22. Unlike the school, the writer believes that

- A. spending more time in class does not result in better grades.
- B. it is healthier to be outside than inside on a sunny day.
- C. parents will be happier in the summer.
- D. making money is important.

23. What was the purpose of writing this article?
- A. To show how the writer's parents feel about summer school.
  - B. To impress the teachers at Johnny Test Government School
  - C. To present evidence to support summer school.
  - D. To protest against having summer school.

My Obnoxious Brother

My obnoxious brother, Bobby
Has a most revolting hobby;
There, behind the garden wall is
Where he captures creepy-crawlies.

5 Grannies, aunts and baby cousins
Come to our house in their dozens,
But they disappear discreetly
When they see him smiling sweetly.
For they know, as he approaches,
10 In his pockets are cockroaches,
Spiders, centipedes and suchlike;
All of which they do not much like.

As they head towards the lobby,
Bidding fond farewells to Bobby
15 How they wish he'd change his habits
And keep guinea pigs or rabbits.

But their wishes are quite futile,
For he thinks that bugs are cute. I'll
Finish now, but just remind you:
20 Bobby could be right behind you!
